The Best New York City Hotels for Every Out-of-Town Guest

Don't make your mom sleep on an air mattress

It's an undisputed fact: No one in history has ever had a good night's sleep on an air mattress--especially on the floor of a studio apartment on the UWS.

So when your sister insists it's totally fine for her to sleep in your hallway when she comes for the holidays, she's lying.

We've got her--and the rest of your visiting family and friends--covered. Here, a boutique hotel to match every style and personality. Best of all, they're affordable (you know, for NYC), and no one has to sleep next to the dog bowl.
