Sidewalks, boardwalks and subway platforms haven't been the only things heating up in New York this summer. The city's restaurant scene has been white-hot as well with buzzy openings from the High Line to Brooklyn and everywhere in between. Add these recently opened bars and restaurants to your summer bucket list and see how many you can hit up before Labor Day.

J G Melon (89 MacDougal St, West Village)

Fans of this New York institution don't have to travel all the way to the Upper East Side anymore for a tasty bite of the restaurant's famous burger.

Order: The Hamburger; $10.75

Alta Linea (High Line Hotel Courtyard, Chelsea)

The High Line Hotel got a killer outdoor dining spot when this rustic Italian restaurant opened in the Chelsea Hotel's courtyard.

Order: The Frozen Negroni; $14

Superiority Burger (430 E 9th St, East Village)

Vegetarians and meat eaters alike have flocked to this new East Village spot serving up meatless (but extremely tasty) food.

Order: The Superiority Burger; $6
