

The New York Times

OFF THE MENU

Babs Opens, Drawing From the Basque Country

Global flavors in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, new ground-floor dining in the Williamsburg Hotel, and more restaurant news.

Evan Bennett, an owner of Babs, on Macdougall Street in Greenwich Village.

Joshua Bright for The New York Times

By Florence Fabricant

June 11, 2019

Opening

Ingo's at the High Line Hotel

This summer's iteration of the hotel's generous outdoor garden space, open until early fall, was named for Ingo Swann, a notable cosmologist, artist and psychic. To go with a long list of libations, including slushy coolers, are bar snacks like truffled popcorn and pretzels.

180 10th Avenue (20th Street), 212-929-3888, thehighlinehotel.com.

<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/06/11/dining/nyc-restaurant-news.html>